THE CLASS REBELLED.

Followed Their Teacher When She Was Dismissed.

Birmingham, Mich., Feb. 5.—There is trouble in the Birmingham M. E. church. It has been smouldering for some time, but broke out for the first time yesterday. It seems to be due to money troubles and indiscreet talk.

Mrs. Esther Boyd, an estimable lady, has been teaching a Sunday school class. Her pupils have been devoted to her and apparently she had done much to make their young lives better and happier. Just why the action was taken is not clear, but at any rate, Pastor Jesse Kilpatrick stepped up to her while Sunday school was in session and quietly informed her that her services were no longer required as a teacher.

The announcement came to the class like a thunderbolt. It roused all their spunk, and when Mrs. Boyd took her departure the entire class followed her in rebellion to a neighboring house, where the lesson was continued.

It is alleged that the pastor and Mrs. Boyd had some trouble over the matter of salary. The Boyds have usually guaranteed the minister his pay, but recently announced that the matter would no longer permit this. A church meeting was held, but a majority of trustees, it is said, favored Mrs. Boyd's retention as a teacher. Of course, Mr. Kilpatrick denies that the matter of salary had anything to do with Mrs. Boyd's dismissal, and there are many friends who would hesitate long before attributing any such motives to the good pastor.

Then it is alleged that a quarrel that the Boyds once had with Elder Bird, a former pastor of the church, had something to do with the trouble, but as usual there is a babel of charges, countercharges and mere gossip, and it is pretty hard to tell just who is to blame.—Detroit Evening News.

How desperate some people get when others say "NO."

But it has come to such a point in the business affairs of a great majority of tradesmen in this country as well as all others that this great system of credit has got to come to a close.
